PRESENCE

Augustine said, "In the end there will only be Christ loving himself." This means that the whole of Creation is the Christ Mystery. The Eternal One has come forth and has taken on form and manifestation—which is us, which is the whole planet, the animals, plants, and elements, the galaxies and all the endless forms and faces that have come forth from God. Our job as conscious humans is to bring the beauty and goodness of everything to full consciousness, to full delight, to full awareness. When you understand that, you can understand what Paul means when he says that in the end "God will be all in all" (1 Corinthians 15:28), which is surely where Augustine got the courage to say the same.

When Paul says to "pray always" (1 Thessalonians 5:17), he can't mean to walk around saying the "Our Father" and "Hail Mary" all day. Prayer is basically a total life stance. It is a way of being present in the world in which we are present to the Presence and present to the Presence in all things. In a certain sense, you either pray always (or almost always) or you do not pray at all.

Being fully present to the moment and to God would be total conversion, but we're all still learners on that path. I hope we've learned how to appreciate at least one or two moments, how to rest and abide in one or two special moments, and to learn to say, "This is good. This is enough. In fact, this is everything." Once you recognize that it's all right here, right now, then you'll carry that awareness everywhere else. How you do anything is how you do everything. This is what Julian of Norwich meant when she looked at one little hazelnut in the palm of her hand, and said "This is everything that is" (Chapter 4, short text of her Showings).

Once we can learn to be present to the Presence, the things that used to bother us don't bother us quite as much. The things that used to defeat us no longer defeat us. The things we thought we could never surrender to, we now can. Even to accept that we are not ready to accept something is still a form of this utterly grounding and accepting Presence.

Ballroom Dancing at The Old Schoolhouse, St John's Road

Come and join us and learn some ballroom dances with professional teachers. The lessons are on Wednesday at 2-3 pm under instruction and 3-4 pm as extra time to practice what we have been taught. There is a suggested donation of £5.

Car Parking

Please pay attention to parking on the streets during Mass. Often cars are parked which makes it impossible for wheelchair users and prams to pass safely on the pavement

Residents also need to access their driveways with ease.
